Dear Recruiting Manager,

I am interested in joining your team and am writing for candidacy consideration. I have been in the GCC for over ten years and have held a senior leadership role in each of the companies for which I have worked. Straddling accountability is familiar, as I have always been directly involved with a myriad of departments and their decision-making process. I have a BSBA in Marketing and an MBA with a concentration in International Business. Because I have held senior leadership roles, including reporting to a Board of Directors, I am fully capable of communicating to, liaising with, and developing for, upper management with confidence and clarity.

As an expert communicator, rely on me for internal and external professional communication and follow-up. As a seasoned marketing veteran, put me in charge of the efforts made to align your business with all the key segments in which it competes. As a human resource authority, who has been over HR leaders for over a decade, make me your employee warrior. As a figurehead of people and strategy, trust me to be an operational leader.

Your team deserves a highly adaptable, multi-faceted, human-capital centric leader who understands communication, marketing, human resources, and operations as well as what it means to develop and execute strategy.

I am uniquely equipped to help you reach your goals and welcome the chance to talk with you about your needs.

Sincerely,

Jillian D. Marshall
