Surgical Trauma Intensive Care Unit

In my three years in the STICU I became proficient in the care of the critically ill, mechanically ventilated, hemodynamically unstable patient. The skills which I became competent in include rapid transfusion of blood products, care for VV ECMO patients, arterial blood draws, assistance with intubation and placement of central lines, and assessing the critically unstable and managing their care. Additionally, I became skilled at running CRRT on patients that required.

SKILLS

As an experienced nurse, I am BLS and ACLS, CRRT, epidural, ECMO, certified. I have also gained proficiency in many nursing tasks such as starting IVs, evaluating lab results, giving enteral tube feedings, inserting catheters, administering medications, giving shots, and providing wound care or managing wound vacs. Furthermore, I am proficient in caring for those being mechanically ventilated or dialyzed. I feel comfortable when performing these tasks in the field, but am excited to continue my education in the job setting as an RN. I am able to multitask, work well under pressure, and think quickly on my feet. Throughout my working career, I have attained great competency in communication and managing the needs of others.
