Dear Hiring Officer,

I hope this message finds you well. My name is Johnnel Hernandez, and I'm a motion graphics designer with over 7 years of experience creating 2D and 3D animations for broadcast, commercial, branding, and digital content. While I understand you may not be actively hiring at the moment, I'm reaching out to express my interest in any current or future opportunities within your company.

I've always been drawn to the way creative brands connect with people, offering not just services, but stories, identity, and timeless legacies. My goal as a designer is to support that mission visually, whether it's through thought-provoking promotional videos, imaginative animations, or dynamic content for social media and digital campaigns.

In my past roles, I've worked on a wide range of projects, from broadcast-level materials to fast-paced social media visuals to more targeted marketing collateral. My strength lies in turning abstract ideas into compelling motion design and I take pride in being reliable, collaborative, and always open to creative feedback.

I'm currently exploring international opportunities to grow creatively and collaborate with teams that value high-quality design and storytelling. I'd be honored to bring my skill set to a brand like Cloudme and contribute to crafting visual experiences that makes clients keep coming back. I am currently living in the Philippines but I am willing to relocate to Bahrain if you offer a visa sponsorship.

Please feel free to review my resume and portfolio at Vimeo | Google Drive | Resume. I am quite proud of the work I've undertaken over the years and I hope to remain to be if I ever be able to contribute to your company in the future.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the possibility of working together.

Sincerely,

Nel Hernandez
