Head of Flight Operation

Dear Sir,

I've developed my passion towards flying since I was very young. I believe passion plays a very important role in one's career and it had fuel my enduring interest in joining the industry as a pilot even after completing my University Business degree studies and gain work experience for a long years.

Throughout the years I've learned a lot of skills since my first job as flight attendant to my current job as senior operation team leader, I am very active in team work and was appointed as team leader in a very short time as a result of my discipline, commitments and hard work. I have gained many skills in communication, planning, recourse management, organization and leadership, which I believe are important for the Pilot. I was trained to remained calm and composure during a crisis and how the efforts of the team members should be managed on an organized way to achieve the main objective of the team within the correct time frame.

I hope that you can give me the opportunity to achieve my dream, the dream that I couldn't achieve many years ago due to several reasons, I'm ready to discuss any option and any arrangement that might be suitable.

Thanks & Best Regards

Sameer Abdulla Salman
